THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE SHORT-STORY

By Brander Matthews, D.C.L. 16mo, 50 cts.

*** In the final ten years of the nineteenth century an ncreasing attention has been paid to the history of fiction and to the principles of narrative art. In many of the leading American universities the modern novel has been serving as the subject for lectures and as the material for private study, in the course of which the short-story received a fair share of attention. It is in consequence of this incessant discussion of modern fiction and of its methods that the author and the publishers have been made aware of a demand for the present essay.

NOTES ON SPEECH-MAKING

By Brander Matthews, D.C.L. 16mo, 50 cts.

*a* The two papers which make up the body of this little book present two aspects of the same subject; and they are the result of the same impulse—a desire to set down simply a few hints for those who are seeking to get at some of the fundamental principles of the difficult art of speech-making.

CONTENTS: I. The Four Ways of Delivering an Address. II. The Real Secret of After-Dinner Oratory. III. Appendix.

ABYSSINIA

Through the Lion-Land to the Court of the Lion of Judah

By HERBERT VIVIAN, M.A. Author of "Servia: The Poor Man's Paradise," "Tunisia, and the Modern Barbary Pirates," etc. With 79 illustrations and two Maps. 8vo, pp. xvi.-342, $4.00.

A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO GARDEN-PLANTS:

Containing Descriptions of the Hardiest and most Beautiful Annuals and Biennials, Hardy Herbaceous and Bulbous Perennials, Hardy Water and Bog Plants, Flowering and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs, Conifers; Hardy Ferns, Hardy Bamboos, and other Ornamental Grasses. By JOHN WEATHERS, F.R.H.S., Late Assistant Secretary to the Royal Horticultural Society, formerly of the Royal Gardens, Kew, etc. With 163 Diagrams. Large 8vo, pp. xii.-1192, $7.50, net.

THE SOURCES AND LITER-ATURE OF ENGLISH HISTORY

FROM THE EARLIEST TIMES TO ABOUT 1485. By Charles Gross, Ph.D., Harvard University. 8vo, pp. xx.-618, $5.00, net.

*** This book contains a systematic survey of the printed materials relating to the political, constitutional, legal, social and economic history of England, Wales and Ireland to 1485.

LIVING ANATOMY

By CECIL L. BURNS, R.B.A., and ROBERT J. COLENSO, M.D. 40 Plates with descriptive letterpress. Demy 4to, in portfolio, $2.50, net.

*** These plates are designed to supplement existing treatises on Art Anatomy, and to form a convenient means of reference for painters, modellers and designers. The figures are all photographed from the living model, and the letterpress is sufficient only to elucidate the illustrations.

A Prospectus may be had upon application to the publishers.

SURVEYS, HISTORIC AND ECONOMIC

Essays and Reviews. By W. J. ASHLEY, M.A., Professor of Economic History in Harvard University, author of "English Economic History and Theory." With an Analytical Table of Contents. 8vo, pp. xxvii.-476, $3.00.

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY

Will Publish in March:

Richard Le Gallienne's New Romance

THE LOVE-LETTERS OF THE KING

Or, The Life Romantic. By RICHARD LE GALLI-ENNE, author of "The Book Bills of Narcissus," etc. 12mo, decorated cloth, $1.50.

This delightful story is told with the author's usual literary skill and charm. It abounds with clever, clear-cut aphorisms and witty sayings, and Religion, Nature, Society, and Solitude all come in for a share of comment. The romance has many wholesome human touches, though its greatest charm lies in the author's style and original point of view.

A New Story of American Life

TRUTH DEXTER

A Romance of North and South. By SIDNEY McCALL. 12mo, decorated cloth, $1.50.

This is a new American society story, entertaining from beginning to end, and full of brilliant and sparkling dialogue. Contrasted with a clever society woman is Truth Dexter, an unlessoned little Southern girl, with a capacity for development but unused to city life. There are a number of exceptionally well-drawn characters, notably Mrs. Dexter, Truth's grandmother, a character study of great delicacy. The old plantation life is made very real, and the novel ends in a sweet, tender, human way.

Fawcett's Life of Queen Victoria

THE LIFE OF HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA

By MILLICENT GARRETT FAWCETT. New edition, with an introduction by Mrs. Bradley Gilman, and a chronological list of the events which occurred in her reign, with a list of the eighteen Prime Ministers and a list of all the members of the Royal family. Illustrated with portraits of the late Queen, the Prince Consort, Edward VII., and Queen Alexandra. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish shortly Richard Le Gallienne's new romance, entitled "The Love Letters of the King; or, the Life Romantic," which abounds with clever, clearcut aphorisms and witty sayings; "Truth Dexter," a romance of North and South, by Sidney McCall; also, a new edition of "The Life of Her Majesty Queen Victoria," by Millicent Garrett Fawcett, with an introduction by Mrs. Bradley Gilman, illustrated with portraits.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce that they will publish in March Lippincott's Magazine a new novel by Maurice Thompson, entitled "Rosalynde's Lovers," described as "a charming idyll of Indiana, into which Mr. lied upon.

Thompson put all his love of nature, his kindly humor and his romantic characterization of rival suitors for a charming heroine." They also announce that the advance sale of Mr. Thompson's "Sweetheart Manette," originally published in Lippincott's, and now first brought out in book form, has been exceptionally heavy.

Brentano's announce that "The Story of Sarah," by Miss M. Louise Forsslund, promised for March 2, will not be issued until March 9—publication having been unavoidably postponed. They also announce the immediate publication of a book by Frankfort Moore, author of "The Jessamy Bride." It will bear the title "Nell Gwyn, Comedian," and is conceded to be the best work the author has yet done. It is one of the freshest and best of the many books about Nell. The publishers are making a special feature of the cover, which is to bear an ornate vignette.

Dodd, Mead & Co. have in preparation for publication during the spring the first volume of "A History of Criticism," by George Saintsbury; "New York in Fiction," by Arthur Bartlett Maurice; "Life and Sport on the Pacific Slope," by Horace A. Vachell; "Turner and Ruskin," by Frederick Wedmore; "Masters of Music," by Anna Alice Chapin; "Love's Argument," by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler; "According to Plato," by F. Frankfort Moore; "Olive Tracy," by Amy Le Feuvre; "John Charity," by Horace A. Vachell; "A Question of Silence," by Amanda Douglas; and "Wasps and Their Ways," by Margaret W. Morley.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the oth of March three books of fiction which have much more than the average promise of interest and success. One, entitled "King's End," by Miss Alice Brown, is strongly commended by the fact that it is by Miss Brown, whose "Meadow Grass" and "Tiverton Tales" good readers remember with delight. The new story is of New Hampshire and of some peculiar characters, of whom, however, Miss Brown writes with sympathy and not with sarcasm, and the book is reported to have the excellent literary qualities which make Miss Brown's other stories so satisfactory. Herbert D. Ward reprints from a magazine a short story entitled "The Light of the World," which has a special Easter appropriateness in the fact that by availing himself of some of the known properties of light and the measureless depths of the heavens a skeptic who has died is enabled to see the Resurrection. The third is "The Curious Career of Roderick Campbell," by Jean N. McIlwraith, a Canadian writer who has done some very good work already. This is an historical novel of good quality, and the love story which runs through it is of a fine strain such as novel readers will welcome. "The Turn of the Road," Miss Frothingham's book published on the 27th of February by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., has already passed to the second impression and promises to have a more than common popularity, which it certainly deserves if the good notices given it can be re-

Drummond, Hamilton. A king's pawn. N.

Henry of Navarre is the central figure of this picturesque romance; it is founded on a journey taken by the king, with two gentlemen of his court and a squire into Spain during the time of her differences with France. In spite of the fact that the party travels incognito, it manages to fall into all manner of dangerous and seemingly fatal predicaments—a vendetta with which a Spanish woman pursues one of the king's companions forming one of the leading motives.

Mrs. Eckstorm has taken a single group of birds—a family of marked individuality, the several species of which are for the most part easily observed and identified, a family which is represented in all parts of our country—and she has given an accurate and orderly account of this family, treating somewhat exhaustively of five of the commonest species, and less fully of the others. There are also chapters on the habits of woodpeckers in general and on their structural peculiarities. Their four tools—bill, foot, tail, and tongue—are accorded special attention. tail, and tongue-are accorded special attention.

An English girl with ancestors dating back to the Conquest begins at about seventeen to pay a round of visits among her kinsfolk, accompanied only by her maid, her mother being an invalid. The daily letters she writes her mother describing the fine houses she visits both in France and England, the odd people she meets, and the many proposals that fall to her share, make a continuous story. As the girl is beautiful and high-spirited, clever and witty and no respecter of persons, and possessed of a most remarkable and engaging innocence, her sketches of the smart set are most amusing.

On the great desert of Arizona in the late sixties a soldier confides to his friend that he has a daughter, the child of a half-breed Indian woman, and the friend promises to educate the little four-year old. The story really opens when the girl is seventeen. To protect her effectually her guardian marries her and she stays with him in a camp during the terrible troubles of the government with the Indians. The novel is a fine story of heredity, and really a document to be added to the history of Indians on the government reservations. General Cook is among the characters. The time is in the late 70's and 1883.

Vernon Kent, a college-bred man who has gone into business in a half-hearted way, becomes ambitious and decides to help his mother, sister and brother take their place in society. His mother is the character of the book. Her plans and machinations for her children's social and financial success show genius and a total lack of conscience. She leaves her Missouri home and the family go to Boston, where their brief career shows up the modern methods of keeping up with your richer neighbors.

He was elected in 1897 on the Citizens' Union ticket to represent the "Tenderloin" district in the Board of Aldermen. The unique surroundings and associations into which he was thus thrown appealed to his keen sense of humor, while the crudity, insufficiency, blundering and manifold evils of the municipal government system under our present charter, as exposed to his shrewd inquisition, invited his caustic analysis. ## The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 2, 1901.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."-LORD BACON.

THE PROGRESS OF REFORM IN THE BOOK TRADE.

THE first fruit of the American Publishers' Association's plan towards bringing order out of chaos in book trade business methods is a test which Harper & Brothers propose to make at once. They have this week sent out the following circular to the trade:

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

In order to give the earliest possible test to the plan to be adopted by the American Publishers' Association to correct the evils connected with the cutting of prices on books, we have decided to present our forthcoming novel "John Vytal," by William Farquhar

Payson, as a net book.

The plan upon which this book is published contemplates the maintaining of the retail price to all purchasers excepting in the case of libraries which may be allowed a discount of ten per cent. If we sell the book to others than the trade, we will add the cost of postage or expressage to the retail

The retail price will be $1.20, instead of $1.50, as it would have been ordinarily. Discount will be allowed as follows:

As is known to you, the plan referred to does not become effective until May 1, 1901, but we see no reason why so wise and just a measure should not be carried out at once. It would seem to be in our mutual interest to test the merits of the plan, and we therefore do not hesitate to seek your co-operation by requesting you not to cut the price of this book.

On the paper cover of this volume, following the plan of the English publishers, there will appear the following notice:

"To the purchaser: The price of this book under the usual method of sale would be of action that still enabled the offender to $1.50, from which the bookseller would make such deduction to you as he might consider proper. Believing that all purchasers should be treated alike, we have made the price $1.20 net, which means that the bookseller is expected to charge you neither more nor less than that amount."

George B. M. Harvey, President of the corporation of Harper & Brothers, who was one of the organizers of the American Publishers' Association, expressed himself satisfied, so far as he had replies from the trade, that this tentative scheme would be heartily supported by the trade. He did not believe that the department store would object to maintaining prices. "These stores," to quote Colonel Harvey as reported in the New York Times, "have now become great book sellers, their book departments being no longer mere advertisements for the dry goods and other departments. All that the department stores now want is the assurance that their competitors will not cut the book prices, and I feel sure they will be as glad as any one else to keep the prices up."

The feeling in the publishing trade, generally, is along the lines of the opinion expressed above by Colonel Harvey, whose example in starting the movement by placing a work of fiction on the net list will very likely be emulated by a number of the publishers who from the beginning were in favor of including all publications in the net agreement. Fortunately, as we have already pointed out, there is no restriction in the matter, and fiction, in whole or in part, may be placed on a net basis by any publisher who may elect to do so.

Reform in the book trade seems daily to be taking deeper root everywhere. Two weeks ago, simultaneously with the announcement of the American Publishers' Association's plan of reform, we received word that two of the most obdurate and persistent undersellers in England and Germany had at last given way on the discount question. Since then, we learn from the Börsenblatt, that the German publishing trade has unanimously agreed to abandon the legally indefensible position of refusing to sell to undersellers at any price, and has adopted the plan to sell only at the full retail price to such as are unwilling to maintain the advertised price of books. The importance of this decision on the part of the German publishing trade becomes apparent when it is remembered that hitherto it had remained optional with the publishers to continue to sell to undersellers at a restricted discount—a line offer his books at a discount without incurring a direct loss. Under the new arrangement, however, the underseller will be obliged to suffer loss by so much as he may deviate from the price at which he buys his books. The new regulation has been subscribed to by upwards of three thousand members as well as non-members of the German book trade association, and the success of the movement seems to be fully assured.

It may be interesting to note in this connection that notwithstanding its reputation for solidarity the German book trade for years has been obliged to wage unceasing war upon abuses that were eating their way into the book business. It is not so long ago that the discount bookseller in Germany surpassed in his reckless course the underseller in any other country, and he was supported through thick and thin by unsuccessful publishers, whose wares he bought by the ton. It was then that a vigorous effort was made to bring about a better state of affairs, and that rules were drawn up which regulated absolutely and definitely the discount which should be given, which defined "remainders," and claimed for the Börsenverein supreme legislation in all matters concerning business disputes. Many of these regulations were conceived in a revengeful and revolutionary spirit that provoked much antagonism and retarded rather than facilitated progress. Cooler judgment, however, prevailed, and from year to year the regulations are brought more within the limits of common sense and equity—a fact which the advocates of radical measures in the present reform movement in this country would do well to bear in mind and model after.

THE issue of THE PUPLISHERS' WEEKLY for March 16 will be the "Spring Announcement Number," giving information, by author and title, of books to be published during the spring and summer seasons. As this information is now given in one alphabet, it is necessary to have the material as far in advance of the date of publication as possible, in order to insure correctness as well as promptness in issuing the number. Publishers who have not yet furnished us with the necessary data are reminded that unless we hear from them on or before March 6 their announcements must be held for a later number and therefore lose some of the value which inclusion in the special number would give them. Word as to advertising matter also should reach us by the 6th inst., at the latest.

CONTRIBUTION TOWARD A BIBLI-OGRAPHY OF WRITINGS CON-CERNING DANIEL BOONE.

BY WILLIAM HARVEY MINER.

An adequate and trustworthy life of Daniel Boone, famous alike in fact and fiction, must yet be written. In spite of the many references to his life in books and periodical literature, and a few so-called biographies, we know but little of him and his real life. Active during that period which, historically, was so vital to the growth and strength of our country (1735-1820,) his existence must always be one of intense contemporary interest both to the historian and the student.

The following list includes all that could be found, after a lengthy and exhaustive search, which bears upon Boone. The numerous school and general histories of our country have not been included, because with the exception of Bancroft and Hildreth, it would avail the student but little to turn to these for information. Bancroft may be considered to have made the only attempt at research above the average. Histories of the State of Kentucky have little value, as a rule, for material contained in them usually is nothing more or less than borrowed statements, and even as such of little worth. Of these Humphrey Marshall's "History of Ken-tucky," Z. F. Smith's "History of Kentucky," Mann Butler's "History of the Commonwealth of Kentucky," Paul Allen's "History of the Expedition under the Command of Captains Lewis and Clark," and T. S. Arthur and W. H. Carpenter's "History of Kentucky" are ex-amples. Lewis Collins' work is an exception, and has been given a place in the list. Among the more recent works Shaler's is probably the best. Histories of Tennessee and Missouri may also be passed over in the same general way-John Haywood's "Civil and Political History of Tennessee" being probably of the most value though published as early as 1823. James Phelan's "History of Tennessee" ranks with Shaler's on the adjoining State.

The library of Colonel Reuben T. Durrett at Louisville contains much valuable material of great interest; his life of John Filson (No. I, Filson Club Publications) and his "Centenary of Kentucky," (No. 7, Filson Club Publications,) both refer indirectly to Daniel Boone, as does the paper by Thomas Speed "The Wilderness Road," being No. 2 of the Filson Club Publications. The collection of MSS. and papers in the possession of Mr. Lyman C. Draper of Madison, Wis., is probably the most complete along this line. Dawson's paper on the siege of Fort Boone, August 8-20, 1778, is valuable, as is also the introduction to William L. Stone's "Life of Brant," which touches on the border wars. Abiel Holmes in his "Annals of America" makes but one reference to Boone. American Notes and Queries. Volume I., page 200, contains a short reference to Daniel Boone; Lord Byron eulogizes the American pioneer in "Don Juan," viii., 61-65, (1821;) Cooper has used him as a model for the hero of the "Leather Stocking Tales," though under dif-ferent conditions and circumstances; and others, without change of name, have brought him before the public. It now remains for a biographer to give us an account of the true man and his surroundings, which would fill a long-felt want and add materially to American biographic annals.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' COPY-RIGHT LEAGUE.

The annual meeting of the American Publishers' Copyright League was held on Thursday, February 21, the President, Mr. W. W. Appleton, being in the Chair.

The Secretary, Mr. George Haven Putnam, presented a draft of an amendment to the copyright law, that had been prepared by the Secretary and the counsel of the League, the purpose of which amendment was the securing for Continental authors some better measure of copyright protection than is afforded under the provisions of the existing copyright statutes.

The members of the League who were present were in accord with the purpose and with the wording of the proposed amendment. The Secretary was instructed to take counsel with certain of the United States Senators and with Members of the House with reference to the advisability of attempting to secure the enactment of such amendment with the present Congress.

The Secretary also presented a communication addressed to the officers of the League from the President of the Publishers' Association of Germany, concerning the Convention of the International Publishers' Association, that is to be held in Leipzig on June 9. Mr. Brockhaus, on behalf of the German publishers, expressed the hope that the League would be represented at this convention.

On motion, it was resolved that the Secretary be delegated to represent the League at said Convention, and that the President be authorized to select such further representatives as might be able to be present in Leipzig at the date specified.

Leipzig at the date specified.

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to have prepared a summary of the opinions given to the League by its counsel and to have such summary printed for the information of the members of the League.

The Treasurer, Mr. Charles Scribner, reported that the balance in the treasury was adequate for the present requirements of the business of the League.

PROTECTION FOR THE RETAIL TRADE.

THE CAMBRIDGE ENCYCLOPEDIA COMPANY, of New York, publishers of the "Cambridge Encyclopedia," Del Mar's monetary works, Koemer's "Etching," and many other books of value, has issued the following circular to the retail book trade:

to the retail book trade:

"The representations made to us by our travelling salesmen concerning the condition of the book trade throughout the United States have induced us to make the following regulations concerning trade discounts on our copyrighted publications, (but not on any others,) the same being subject to such general regulation of discounts as may hereafter be made by the Publishers' Association of New York.

New York.
"To retail booksellers, a discount of 33 1/3 per cent.; the purchaser paying the carriage.
"No discount has been or will hereafter, be allowed to libraries; it being our purpose to loyally support the trade to the best of our ability. This regulation will also encourage you to solicit the libraries in your neighborhood.

"Orders from booksellers to send postpaid copies of books to given addresses will be charged with the postage and executed at the risk of the party sending the order.

"No books will be consigned 'on sale.' As we take every care, in packing, to eliminate imperfect copies, no books will be returnable, unless it can be shown that they were imperfect when shipped; and in such case the proof must be furnished within five days after the receipt of the books by the parties to whom sent.

"No sales will be made to parties offering our publications at less than the list: it being our intention to discourage 'cutting.'

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISH-ERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION held its fifteenth annual convention last week in New York, concluding its four sessions with a banquet on the evening of Washington's Birthday at the Waldorf-Astoria.

James M. Beck, of Washington, one of the speakers, proposed that a movement should be started by journalists for the erection of a statue to Franklin as the father of their profession and as the genius of democratic America.

Colonel Frank B. Stevens, who followed Mr. Beck, spoke upon "The Harmsworth Experiment." He said that the experiment proved the non-necessity of the advertising agent, but that it was treating American journalism in the wrong way. Each paper, he said, marked out the line of least resistance and followed it, appealing strictly to a well defined stratum of society.

J. N. Scatcherd made an appeal for the Pan-American Exposition, and invited those present to attend the show. He was followed by Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press. He outlined the qualifications which made for leadership and helped to win the confidence of the public, and said that a newspaper should try to get a perspective of the world's happiness.

Speeches were also made by Justice Edward W. Hatch of the Supreme Court, William B. Green, John M. Allen and others.

In the course of the evening Mr. Seitz announced that ex-Congressman Oliver of Pittsburg, Pa., had contributed $1000 toward a fund for the erection of a monument to Franklin in Paris.

The following officers were elected: President, S. H. Kauffmann of The Washington Star; vice-president, Charles H. Taylor, Jr., The Boston Globe; secretary, W. C. Bryant, The Brooklyn Times, and treasurer, Edward P. Call, The Evening Post. The following Executive Committee was chosen: Charles W. Knapp, The St. Louis Republic; W. L. McLean, The Philadelphia Bulletin; A. A. McCormick, The Chicago Times-Herald and

The Chicago Evening Post; F. E. Whiting, The Boston Herald; Joseph T. Nevin, The Pittsburg Leader, and Charles E. Austin, The Buffalo Express.

Buffalo Express.

This Committee on Paper Supply was appointed: Don C. Seitz, of The New York World; William Livingston, of The Detroit Journal, and J. B. Townsend, of The Philadelphia Press.

The Special Standing Committee was made up as follows: A. A. McCormick, M. J. Lowenstein, of The St. Louis Star, and Herman Ridder, of the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung. This committee has charge of matters pertaining to labor disputes. Under the agreement approved by the association on Thursday, such disputes are hereafter to be settled by arbitration.

This Committee on Advertising Agencies was appointed: E. P. Call, F. E. Whiting and W. L. McLean.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DIC-TIONARY.

"Webster's International Dictionary," printed from new plates and increased by 25,000 words, adding about one-seventh to its former bulk, is now a work of the greatest every day utility. It is remarkable how complete and satisfactory a dictionary the editors of the Webster's "International" have succeeded in putting into one substantial volume which is furnished in a great variety of binding.

The new matter, on which a large corps of specialists have been working for years, consists of an appendix of 238 pages, in which are included words omitted from the body of the book, new words, old words with new meanings, foreign words that have come into current use, new combinations of words, etc.in short, a record of the growth of our lan-guage. The editor-in-chief of this revision, the successor of President Noah Porter, is W. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education. The corps of specialists includes Prof. Sidney I. Smith of Yale, Dr. A. C. True of the United States agricultural experiment station, Russell Sturgis, the authority on architecture, Dr. Edward S. Holden, the astronomer, Prof. Lester F. Ward of the United States National Museum, Prof. Ira Remsen of Johns Hopkins, Rev. Dr. S. M. Jackson for church history, President T. C. Mendenhall of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Prof. J. K. Gilbert of the United States Survey, Justice Brewer of the United States Survey, Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, Prof. Craig of Johns Hopkins, Prof. C. B. Richards of Yale, Dr. J. S. Billings, Director of the New York Public Library, R. W. Raymond, Secretary of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, Gen. A. W. Greely, formerly Chief of the Weather Bureau, Prof. E. S. Dana of Yale, Lieut Col. Fiebinger of West Point Dudley Lieut.-Col. Fiebinger of West Point, Dudley Buck, the composer, Commander Green, late of the navy, Prof. L. V. Pirsson of Yale, Prof. E. L. Nichols of Cornell, R. H. Chittenden, Director of Sheffield Scientific School, Prof. A. E. Verrill of Yale.

The first and original edition of Webster's "Unabridged Dictionary" was published in two volumes in 1828 at New Haven, Conn., by Sherman Converse. In 1840 the second edition appeared, revised by Dr. Noah Webster himself, to which a supplement was added in 1843. After the death of Dr. Webster in that year the unsold volumes of that edition and the copyright was purchased by George and Charles Merriam whose imprint—G. & C. Merriam—has appeared upon all the authorized editions of the dictionary for fifty-seven years.

In 1847 a new edition was edited by Prof. Chauncey A. Goodrich; in 1859 much supplementary matter was added and illustrations appeared in an American dictionary for the first time. New editions always greatly increased by valuable features appeared in 1864, 1879, 1884, and 1890, and now it would seem that almost everything that can be thought of for a dictionary has found a place in its pages. A very interesting feature of this edition is the appending of all the prefaces of the various editions in their historical order. The volume now has grown to 2364 pages and contains 5000 illustrations.

DANGER IN WASHING BOOKS.

Douglas Cockerell, the well-known English bookbinder, according to the London Athenaeum, "utters a cry of lamentation over the copies of the First Folio Shakespeare that he has seen. He finds that they have nearly all been sent over to France to be 'washed,' that is, cleaned from stains and dirt with dilute sulphuric or hydrochloric acid, which was so strong that it has destroyed the fibre of the paper; and in twenty or thirty years the pages will be as brittle as the thinnest glass, and break to pieces as they are turned over. So let buyers and owners of First Folios beware. Washing with weak sul-phuric acid is safe, says Mr. Cockerell, as this acid evaporates before the fibre of the paper is touched. But we think owners of old books dirtied or stained had better keep clear of acid altogether, and try bread-crumbs only for the dirt.

THE ASHBURNHAM "EVANGELA-RIUM."

THE splendid Ms. of the "Evangelia Quatuor," which for over sixty years has been in the possession of the earls of Ashburnham, according to the London Times, "was recently sold by private treaty to a purchaser who is not an inhabitant of England. The price paid is £10,000, probably the highest sum ever paid for a single volume.

"The history of the volume, one of the most important and beautiful examples of early goldsmiths' and jewellers' art in existence, is definite and simple. It belonged for many centuries to the Abbey of Noble Canonesses, founded A.D. 834 by the Emperor Lewis the Pious, at Landau, on the Lake of Constance. There is a tradition that the Ms. was given by the emperor at the time of the foundation of the abbey, but this cannot be correct, as the writing is of a much later date.

It remained in possession of the abbey until its dissolution in 1803, when pensions were allotted to the canonesses, and they were allowed to divide among themselves the contents of the treasury of the abbey. This book, falling to the share of the Canoness Antoinette, Baroness von Enzburg, after her death was purchased by Baron Joseph de Lapsberg, who sold it to Boone, the London bookseller, in 1846. It was almost immediately sold to the late Lord Ashburnham. It was exhibited by the present earl at the Society of Antiquaries in June, 1880.

"The binding is formed of stout boards lined on the inside with ancient embroidered silk and covered on the outside with beaten gold. The upper cover with our Saviour on the Cross has the surface with raised borders and lines of fretwork in gold and studded with 327 emeralds, sapphires, carbuncles, pearls and other precious stones. The lower cover is formed into a cross patée, with a border of mosaic enamels and set with 35 precious stones. The covers of the book date from about the end of the eighth century, or probably rather later. This Evangeliarium, or Textus, is not merely interesting as a work of art; it is associated on the one side with the early history of Christianity in Bavaria, and the part which the Irish ecclesiastics took in its introduction into that district, and on the other with that great dynasty which played so important a part in the history of Europe.

"As far as the manuscript itself is concerned, it is not enriched with the fine miniatures which adorn the best examples of the Carlovingian school, and the inside of the book is distinctly less interesting than the outside. It consists of 220 pages of vellum, 125% inches by 10 inches, and comprises the text of the four gospels of Jerome's version, preceded by their arguments or prefaces (St. Luke having two,) and by the epistle of Jerome to the Pope Damasus, with tables of the Eusebian Canons. The writing is of German origin and the text is by several scribes, written not earlier than 950. The appearance of an unpretentious book in such a splendid dress is explained by the probability that the manuscript has usurped the place of an older and finer copy, more in harmony with the

"During the whole of the mediæval period every rich church possessed one of these magnificently written Textus, or Books of the Gospel. It was placed on the high altar before the celebration of the mass, during which it was used for the 'reading of the Gospel.' It was also used to serve the purpose of a Pax, being handed round among the ministers of the altar for the ceremonial kiss of peace, which in primitive times has been exchanged among the members of the congregation themselves."

OBITUARY NOTES.

ETHELBERT NEVIN, a promising young American composer, died suddenly in New Haven, Conn., on the 17th ult., aged thirty-eight, having been born at Edgeworth, Pa., in 1873. His best known composition was "Narcissus."

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE RIGHT TO SELL BOOKS.

New York, February 20, 1901.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: A good many years ago the discount question and cut price imbroglio was the subject of an important decision by Lord Campbell. The gist of it was that when a man bought a book he could sell it at whatever price he chose and must not be interfered with in so doing. This is common sense and it is law.

May I suggest to the new Publishers' Association a possible remedy? There may be practical difficulties in the way I know not of, but it seems to me that a publisher owning the copyright of a book and so having its ex-clusive control need not sell it to a bookseller, dry goods man, druggist, or any other wholesaler or retailer at all. Why not sell the right to sell the book at a certain figure? "Here," says the publisher "is a Life of John Smith, published price $1.50 net. You, Mr Dealer, may buy the right from me to sell as many copies as you choose at that figure upon paying me the sum of one dollar per book for such right." If the dealer cared to guarantee to sell 1000 or 2000 or 10,000 at $1.50 net, the publisher could use his own discretion in issuing his license to sell at a reduced price per copy. I can readily see there are many complications of detail which would require to be settled, but I believe my idea contains the germ of the only possible system for the avoidance of the present ruinous competition. What think your readers? Yours respectfully,

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. J. BOWDEN.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish during the spring a new novel by Paul Laurence Dunbar, entitled "The Fanatics."

James Pott & Co. will publish shortly a story of pioneer life in Canada, entitled "Early Days in the Maple Land," with illustrations by Arthur Heming.

THE CAXTON CLUB, Chicago, is about to publish a reprint of "Wan-bun, the 'Early Day' in the Northwest," by Mrs. John H. Kinzie, which has long been out of print.

Andrew Geyer, New York, has in preparation "The Manufacture of Cellulose," by Max Schubert, with upwards of 100 illustrations, which he hopes to have off the press in the course of the next three months.

THE CORNHILL PRESS, 69 Cornhill, Boston, announces an edition of 300 copies of "The Shrine of Death" and "The Shrine of Love," by Lady Dilke, two books first 'published in London in 1886 and 1891 respectively.

THE ALLIANCE PUBLISHING COMPANY has published a new edition of Louise C. Duckwitz's entertaining book for young people, entitled "What Thelma Found in the Attic." This edition contains four new illustrations and has a new cover.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have in preparation "The Grapes of Wealth," a novel by Miss Harriet E. Norris, author of "The Gray House of the Quarries." The new story is in a vein entirely different from that of the author's first book, and is perhaps even more original.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & COMPANY will publish in April an absorbing story by Lucy Cleaver McElroy, entitled "Juletty, a Story of Old Kentucky," with illustrations by W. E. Mears, a young New York artist of much promise, who spent several weeks amid the scenes which form the setting of the story.

A. S. Barnes will publish shortly "Home Thoughts," selections from the articles which have been appearing in the Saturday edition of the New York Evening Post, and have been attracting so much attention. The publication of these essays in book form has been requested by a large circle of their readers.

An eccentricity of advertising, says the London correspondent of the New York Tribune, is perceptible in a London publisher's announcement of a new novel as the work of a "brother of the tallest man in the British Army." If the book had only been written by the "tallest man" himself! What a chance for a poster!

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a volume on General Meade, by Isaac R. Pennypacker, for their Great Commanders Series. The basis of the work is found in the official records of the Union and Confederate armies. Special pains have been taken with the maps, measurements and other information relating to the Gettysburg battlefield.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY will publish shortly "A Handbook for Readers, Thinkers, Writers and Speakers," selected from the best sources and classified, including a list of authorities quoted. They have also nearly ready a new edition, printed from new plates, of B. L. Farjeon's charming novel, "Samuel Boyd of Catchpole Square."

A. C. McClurg & Co. will soon publish a work entitled "Birth a New Chance," by Columbus Bradford, who holds that "the human personality does not leave the body at death, but that the germ of life persists and in due time reappears in another body," and that "the ultimate perfection of the race will result from the gradual amelioration of the individual members."

JOHN LANE is to bring out in this country Osman Edwards's "Japanese Plays and Playfellows" that a short time ago was prematurely announced by another publishing house. The volume will contain twelve colored plates made by Japanese artists especially for the book. The book is dedicated to "Yakumo Koizumi and Lafcadio Hearn, poet and friend, with admiring gratitude."

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have in preparation Mrs. Burton Harrison's new novel, "A Princess of the Hills;" "The Dream of My Life," by E. P. Tenney, author of "Constance of Acadia;" also a semi-political novel by Francis Churchill Williams. As already announced, they will publish in book form Irving Bacheller's new story, "D'ri and I." after it has appeared serially in The Century.

THE PILGRIM PRESS have just reissued "The Divine Origin of Christianity Indicated by Its Historical Effects," by Dr. Richard S. Storrs, which was formerly published by A. D. F. Randolph & Co. The new edition contains almost all the best addresses on this subject by the great Brooklyn preacher and has now been furnished with an excellent portrait, and has also been greatly reduced in price.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, will publish on the 5th inst. a volume by the compilers of "Borrowings," now in its twentieth thousand, entitled "Thoughts," quotations from such writers as Henry Drummond, Phillips Brooks, Horatio Stebbins, and many others. The volume is gotten up in white cloth and in full ooze leather and makes an attractive and suitable gift for the Easter season.

The Isaac H. Blanchard Co., New York, has just published new editions of "The Romance of Robert Burns," by John Templeton, a tale in which move such characters as the poet Burns, Bonnie Dean and Mary; also, "Vaudeville and Other Things," by C. E. Schultze ("Mr. Bunny.") They have in press a touching and well-written story, entitled "The Way of a Man with a Maid," by Frances Gordon Fane, a new aspirant for literary honors.

THE CLARENDON PRESS has in preparation "Studies in History and Jurisprudence," by the Right Hon, James Bryce; "The Relations of History and Geography," by H. B. George; "An Antiquarian Companion to English History," by F. P. Barnard; "British Colonies and Protectorates," by the late Sir Henry Jenkyns; "Legislative Methods and Forms," by Sir C. P. Ilbert; also, "The Civil and Criminal Procedure of Cicero's Time," by A. H. J. Greenidge.

Charles Scribner's Sons will publish some time in May a collection of stories by Frederick Palmer, a well-known and experienced war correspondent, entitled "Ways of the Service," in which he describes army life in the Philippines, especially that of the "army women," the officers' wives who have now had time to join their husbands in the islands. In Mr. Palmer's own phrase, his effort has been "to bring to light the part which woman is playing on the picturesque background of one part of the Far East."

Henry Holt & Co. have in press a new school and college speaker by Professor W. B. Mitchell of Bowdoin College. The material is for the most part entirely fresh, only a few old favorites being included. Prose predominates but there is a sprinkling of selections in verse. An introduction to the book traverses lightly the essentials of the whole art of public speaking. They have also in press a volume of representative selections from Topffer's "Voyages en Zigzag," edited by Ascott R. Hope, with a vocabulary.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready "Sweetheart Manette," by the late Maurice Thompson, author of "Alice of Old Vincennes." This story has its scene laid at Old Bay St. Louis, near New Orleans, and the author has described the environment with the rare gift of which he was past master; "When Blades are Out and Love's Afield," by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "A Cabinet Minister," by Guy Boothby; and "A Little Grey Sheep," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser. About March 15 they will issue "The Career of a Beauty," by John Strange Winter.

It is not at all unlikely that a new theatre will be erected either in New York or Boston with the distinct object of making productions only of dramatizations from popular novels of the day. According to the present plans the first production will be "Quincy Adams Sawyer," the popular New England story which is now very near its one hundredth thousand. The book is now in the hands of the dramatist who finds the book, its characters, scenes, and incidents, naturally adapted to stage use. It is intended to make the production an elaborate one, of the rural drama order.

THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA, 1015 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have just published a volume of "Songs of Exile," translated by Nina Davis. The volume contains thirty-two poems by Eleasar ben Kalir, Solomon Ibu Gabriol, Jehudah Helevi, and other Hebrew poets of Post-Biblical times together with adaptations from the Talmud and the Midrash. A prelude by the translator, on the characteristics of Hebrew poetry, introduces the collection, and the greater number of the poems are accompanied by notes of a biographical and explanatory nature.

McClure, Phillips & Co. will publish shortly Edward H. Sothern's prompt book on "Hamlet," as it was prepared for his own successful production for the first time at the Garden Theatre, New York, on September 17, 1900. It is to be uniform in style with the Mansfield edition of "King Henry v." Sixteen half tones will illustrate the volume, eight of which show Mr. Sothern and Miss Harned as Hamlet and Ophelia, the rest exhibiting whole scenes in the play. The cover design is a representation in six colors, on imitation Japan vellum, of the burial of Ophelia, and is the work of a distinguished English artist.

Doubleday, Page & Co. will publish at once Eden Phillpotts's new novel, "Johnny Fortnight," the scene of which is laid in a Devon valley in the centre of which stands the village of Compton and Compton Castle, a fortified manor house, once the home of the illustrious Gilbert family, which was used as a refuge by Sir Walter Raleigh. They will also publish shortly "The Octopus," the first of the trilogy of stories by Frank Norris, having for its theme "the apotheosis of wheat"—in other words, the description of scenes in the life of wheat farmers of the West. "The Octopus" tells of the bloody conflict between the San Joaquin wheat growers and the railroads, known as the "Mussel Slough Affair."

R. H. Russell has just published the longpromised "Weber & Fields Pictorial Souvenir," in which these fortunate fun makers are most attractively presented. Mr. Russell is preparing a dramatic souvenir much more elaborate than any of those which he has hitherto published. This will be a volume of 160 pages, bound in cloth, with illuminated covers, called "The Illustrated American Stage." and it will show many of the favorite players now before the public in some of their latest parts. Most of the illustrations will be reproductions of photographs; but there will also be original drawings by Rothenstein, Strauss, Haskell, Gilbert, Charles Dana Gibson, Halsey and Lady Granby; in all, more than 250 pictures.

Herbert S. Stone & Co. have just ready the long-promised "Three Plays for Puritans," by G. Bernard Shaw, which is said to be an epitome of everything this clever author has done. The three plays are "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," a melodrama upto-date; "The Devil's Disciple," already made familiar to theatre goers in this country by Richard Mansfield, a historical romance with keen satirical variations; and "Cæsar and Cleopatra," showing Cæsar as a veritable sympathetic human being instead of a distant abstraction. Through all these plays runs that whimsical humor that is Bernard Shaw's alone. The prefaces express his whimsical theories of dramatic criticism in a way to delight the initiated and startle the philistines.

Jamieson-Higgins Co., Chicago, will publish during the spring "The Warners," an American story of to-day, by Gertrude Potter Daniels; "The Silver Cross," by S. R. Keightley, "A Crown of Straw," by Allen Upward, "The Royal Road" and "A Gallant Fight," both by Marion Harland, four additions to their fifty cent series of popular works of fiction by American authors; a new volume of "Short Story Masterpieces;" "Peck's Red-Headed Boy," a new book by George W. Peck, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, the author of "Peck's Bad Boy;" "When the Band Played," a book for reciters and entertainers, by Grace Duffie Boylan; "Fun with Science," amusing experiments in physics, chemistry, and geometry, by George Brunel; "Woman Beautiful, or, the Art of Beauty Culture," by Mme. Qui Vive, (Mrs. Helen Follett-Stevans;) also, a new edition of "Banking Systems of the World," by William Matthews Handy.

THE MACMILIAN COMPANY will publish at an early date a book which is likely to be of interest to agriculturists on "The Feeding of Animals," by W. H. Jordan, Director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, giving equal attention to theory and practice of the subject. The volume is not an attempt to lay down rules for feeding animals, but is rather a discussion of the fundamentals which lie at the basis of intelligent practice. It is prepared with the expectation that it will be useful both in the class room and to the general reader. Another book to be published in the near future is "The Romance of the Heavens," by A. W. Bickerton, Professor of Chemistry at the New Zealand University, who has tried to write a book which with careful reading may be followed by any person with a good school knowledge of experimental science. They have in preparation a story entitled "Arrows" of the Almighty," by Owen Johnson, a son of Robert Underwood Johnson, of the Century Company. It is not a "war story" as the term is usually understood, but deals with incidents occurring during the war, especially with the hero's fight with contractors who were robbing the Government in providing supplies for the army. The scene is laid in Maryland just before the war broke out, and is transferred to Cleveland and then to New York.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish shortly a volume, entitled "The Mayflower and Her Log," which will present in unique form all that is authoritatively known about the first voyage of The Mayflower to this country. The author is Dr. Azel Ames, member of the Pilgrim Society, who, after exhaustive study among the documents relating to the subject, has reconstructed the log of the voyage, while in copious foot notes he gives the authority and source of the "entries." The volume will be illustrated with maps and charts and with a portrait of Edward Winslow. They have in preparation the third volume of "Letters to Washington," edited by Stanislaus Murray Hamilton, and issued under the auspices of the Colonial Dames of America, which will embrace the years 1758 to 1770. The letters are from years 1758 to 1770. The letters are from Lord Fairfax, Col. Bonquet, Speaker Robin-son, George Mason, and others, and throw much light on Washington in his business relations, his marriage and life at Mount Vernon, the education of his stepson, and his character as a foster-father. The series begun by Leon H. Vincent with his little vol-ume on the "Hotel de Rambouillet and the Précieuses" will be continued by further volumes in the same style on "The French Academy," "Corneille" and "Molière." The first two are about ready, and the "Molière" will follow later in the year.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready an interesting contribution to the literature of American industrial history entitled "American Engineering Competition," a series of articles relating to the progress and development of American engineering and manufactures that recently appeared in the London Times warning England of the dangerous in-dustrial rivalry of the United States. They have in preparation for publication this month the following: "The Bolivian Andes," by Sir Martin Conway, one of the greatest mountain climbers in the world to-day, in which he describes a long tour in and about the Andes in the years 1898 and 1900; "The Love Letters of Victor Hugo," with portraits; "Ten Singing Lessons," by Madame Mathilde Marchesi; the third and fourth volumes of "A History of the Four Georges," by Justin McCarthy, which conclude one of the most McCarthy, which conclude one of the most interesting histories of an interesting period of English history; also "The Progress of the Century," comprising the series of articles by eminent specialists treating of the wonderful advance made in all departments of human endeavor during the nineteenth century, which were originally published in the Sunday issues of the New York Sun. In the department of fiction they will publish "Martin lots.)—Bangs.

Brook," by Morgan Bates, the third novel in the series of Harper's New American Novels, a strong religious story and love tale of the early nineteenth century in northeastern New York; "John Vytal," by William F. Payson, a story of the early days of Virginia, the period being about the same as that of "To Have and to Hold;" the Players' Edition of "Ben Hur," already fully described in these columns; also, "Understudies," quaint and charming stories of animals and flowers by Mary E. Wilkins.

Advertising Which Brings Replies.

N all our advertising experience we have never received so many answers from any medium as come to us from our advertisements in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY—when we offer free copies to retail salesmen. It is always a pleasure to send these books, though occasionally we find the clerks more appreciative than the firm, especially in the case where fifteen clerks asked for copies of "The King's Pawn," and got them with our compliments; the house which they served ordered but two copies for their stock. All the titles we have offered to retail sales people have succeeded, and we draw our own conclusions. We may be a little slow in answering the requests for "A King's Pawn," as we have not been able to catch up on this stock, but every legitimate request will be complied with.

A KING'S PAWN.

King Henry of Navarre.

The booksellers are helping us magnificently with this book. By the time this advertisement is in print all our orders will be filled. Here is a sample letter from a bookselling friend. If there were a thousand booksellers like this, the publishing business would be a path of roses.

"I see by the P. W. that you are anxious to send out some copies of 'A King's Pawn' to the retail salesmen who will read it, so I guess you had better send me one to —— Avenue. I won't promise to sit down right away and read it over again, for I read the sample copy sent and 't is a rattling good book. Our traveller was at once put on the racket, and has taken some orders, so you see we are not asleep, only dozing. I enclose an order for 100 copies, and also for the electro; and if you send that at once, marked 'Rush,' we will have the circulars printed and distribute several thousands on the first of the month."

To BOOKSELLERS who Do Not Deal with Us.

We regret to say that we do not begin to reach all the trade who really should carry our publications in stock. Probably our name and books are quite unknown to hundreds of them. All active booksellers who have not an account with us, and who read THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, are respectfully requested to fill out and mail this blank to us.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.,

34 Union Square, East, New York.

I am a bookseller, and shall be glad to have your confidential letter to booksellers and a copy of your Spring Announcement catalogue.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY

Invite the Attention of the Trade to three Books of Fiction which will be published Saturday, March 9:

King's End.

By ALICE BROWN, author of "Meadow-Grass," "Tiverton Tales," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

This is a New Hampshire story, that takes its name from the village in which the scenes are laid. A vagabond returns to the village from his aimless wanderings and abducts his motherless child from the grandmother. He sets about the task of bringing up this child, and through pity there comes to his aid a visionary girl who had determined to refuse her persistent lover and go off preaching with a half-crazy evangelist. But the lover is resolute, and after extricating the evangelist from extreme peril and the girl from financial straits, he has his reward. The father makes a decidedly moderate success in child-rearing, and the grandmother seizes the opportunity to regain the child. The story has scenes of a gypsy wildness, and humor and pathos are never far apart. It is marked by the fine literary touch which distinguishes "Meadow-Grass" and Miss Brown's other stories; and also by the freshness, humor, and personal charm which make these so attractive.

The Curious Career of Roderick Campbell.

By JEAN MCILWRAITH, author of "A Book about Longfellow," etc. With four illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

In contrast with most recent historical novels, this Story is of the North instead of the South, and its heros are Scots and not English or American. The hero is in the great fight at Culloden, and later goes to Canada. He is in several other battles in which he does valiantly, and finds in war some relieving scenes and situations of humor. His wooing is rather uphill work at first, but prospers later, as is fitting. The leading characters, Uncle Rory and Elspeth, Hector and Gilbert, are uncommonly lifelike and go great distances and through perils of battle, fire, and flood as blithe as any heroes and heroines of romance.

Miss McIlwraith tells a story remarkably well, and to a fine knack of narration she adds a genuine touch of Scottish humor.

The Light of the World.

By HERBERT D. WARD, author of "The White Crown," "The Burglar Who Moved Paradise," etc. With a frontispiece illustration. Square 12mo, $1.00.

A striking story of high imaginative power, based on the rate at which light travels and the vast spaces of the heavens. A good man, but a reverent doubter of religion, dies and his spirit passes out among the stars. Far off he discovers light which left the earth long before, and in it he sees great events of history being enacted. There he beholds the fall of Gordon at Khartum, and later he is so far away that he meets the light that came from Judea at the time of Christ. He witnesses the Resurrection, and his religious doubts are dispelled. It is a story of much force, effectively told, and will be of special interest at the Easter season.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO., 4 Park St., BOSTON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY

Take Pleasure in Announcing the Second Impression of

The Turn of the Road

By Eugenia Brooks Frothingham, 12mo, $1.50.

It is the story of a singer, of her absorption in her art, and of the strongwilled, self-reliant man who would marry her. There is no room in the woman's life for love, and no thought in the man's mind of failure to win her; but it is only through the weakness of a great misfortune that he gains his truest strength, and through the renunciation of her ambition that she conquers fame.

"One of the most delightful among the new romances. The natural ease of the story-teller, the grace and swing of the narrative, the simple force of the details, and the realistic emotional tone of the romance as the course of true love becomes more and more troubled, make this a most attractive volume."

—BOSTON HERALD.

OTHER NEW BOOKS

The Life and Literature of the Ancient Hebrews

By LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D., author of "The Life and Letters of Paul the Apostle," "The Evolution of Christianity," etc. Crown 8vo, gilt top, $2.00.

Dr. Abbott traces in the Bible the origin and development of the religious, political, and literary life of the ancient Hebrews, on the theory that this life was a gradual development like that of other nations. His treatment of the Bible is free yet wholly reverent, and his book is of uncommon interest and value.

The Woodpeckers

By Mrs. FANNY HARDY ECKSTORM. With 5 full-page colored designs by Louis Agassiz Fuertes, and many text illustrations. Square 12mo, $1.00.

Mrs. Eckstorm takes up a single group of birds—a family of marked individuality, the several species of which are for the most part easily observed and identified, a family which is represented in all parts of our country—and she gives a lively yet accurate and orderly account of this family, treating somewhat exhaustively of five of the commonest woodpeckers, and less fully of the others. The book is finely illustrated and will delight bird lovers.

A Pillar of Salt

By JENNETTE LEE, author of "Kate Wetherell." 16mo, $1.25.

A striking story of the passion of an inventor for working out his dreams; the opposition of his wife a practical New England woman; and his success. Through the engaging story is woven the life of the family and of "the Street" and the New England factory town in which the scene of the story is laid.

A Dictionary of American Authors

By OSCAR FAY ADAMS. Fourth Edition, much enlarged. 8vo, $3.50.

This valuable handbook now contains over 7500 brief biographies of American authors, comprising statements of the life and writings of each author named.

A Satchel Guide

For the Vacation Tourist in Europe. Covering the portions of Europe commonly visited by tourists. By W. J. Rolfe. Edition for 1901, carefully revised to date. With Maps, Street Plans, Money Tables, a Calendar of Festivals and Fairs, etc. Accurate, clear, compact, so as to go in one's pocket. Flexible leather cover, $1.50, net.

RALPH MARLOWE ...

A Fascinating Tale of Love, Comedy and Tragedy

Whose plot is laid in the picturesque hill-districts of the Buckeye State. A true picture of Twentieth Century life.

DR. JAMES BALL NAYLOR has proven to us in this charming story that it is not necessary to go back several decades to find material on which to base a work of fiction.

"RALPH MARLOWE" surpasses in its bright witticisms, laughable incidents, eccentric characters, and newness of plot all the popular novels of the past year. Dr. Naylor has the happy faculty of making his readers see the ridiculous side of human life, and has already won for himself an enviable reputation through his popular serial stories for apt character drawing. Nothing could be more realistic than the author's description of the hero's initial visit to the little village, his meeting with the stern Doc Barwood, or his winsome daughter, the garrulous Jep, stammering Thomp, or the staid Julia. Fiction lovers will indeed find in this volume a rare treat.
